IMPORTANT RISK CONSIDERATIONS

Emerging Market Risk: investing in emerging markets or lesser developed countries exposes the Fund to higher levels of possible risk and return. It may be difficult to buy and sell investments in such countries. The Fund may be exposed to price instability, currency fluctuations and changes in economic, political, regulatory and governmental conditions which may affect the performance of the Fund

Market Risk: the Fund invests in shares and the value of these shares may go down as well as up due to a variety of factors including market and economic conditions, sector, geographical and political events. The Fund may also invest in assets denominated in currencies other than the Fund's base currency and changes in exchange rates may adversely affect the value of your investment. The value of your investment may go down as well as up and investors may not get back the original amount invested.

Derivative Risk: the Fund may use specialist financial techniques (known as derivatives) to both reduce or "off-set" risk and for investment purposes. The value of a derivative depends primarily on the performance of the underlying asset. A small movement in the value of the underlying asset may cause a large movement in the value of the derivative.

Exchange Rate Risk: the Fund invests in assets denominated in currencies other than the Fund's base currency. Changes in exchange rates may lead to fluctuations in the value of your investment.

ESG PROFILE

Responsible investing issues are embedded in our process in the context of our quantitative frameworks for bottom-up security and top-down valuation. At our core, Acadian seeks investments that are likely to generate the best risk-adjusted returns, inclusive of ESG considerations. We believe that such investments are characterized by strong financial health, solid business prospects, effective corporate governance, and upside potential – traits that are likely to be embodied by sustainable and responsible businesses. Alongside the traditional financial criteria we employ to help identify such companies – i.e., fundamental value, earnings, quality, and price factors – we incorporate ESG issues in our bottom-up and top-down frameworks through the use of corporate governance and corruption indicators and other signals that capture ESG considerations. Research and implementation of these factors must meet the same high standards for inclusion into our investment process. That is, we will only incorporate ESG signals into our process that we believe will assist in maximizing risk-adjusted returns.

Outside of ESG signals incorporated into our investment model we can incorporate additional and stronger ESG and responsible investment considerations through our flexible and customizable portfolio construction framework. These may include common exclusions such as Tobacco or Weapons to some more unique classifications. Acadian's large investment universe and optimization techniques minimizes the investment impact of socially responsible considerations. The decision to invest in the Fund should take into account all the characteristics or objectives of the funds as described in the prospectus.

FUND ANALYSIS

The portfolio underperformed its benchmark for the month. Stock selection detracted from return, while country allocations were negative. Key sources of negative active return included a combination of stock selection and an underweight position in China, a combination of stock selection and an overweight position in the United Arab Emirates, and stock selection in Taiwan. Contributors included stock selection in South Korea, a combination of stock selection and an underweight position in India, and a combination of stock selection and an underweight position in Indonesia.

From a process perspective, Acadian's Alpha model yielded negative results, as did the Non-Alpha model components. Within our Alpha model, in aggregate, Bottom-Up signals were not rewarded. Within our Bottom-Up model, Quality and Value signals faced headwinds while Technical experienced tailwinds. Acadian's Peer model, which seeks to capture non-obvious linkages between companies, delivered unfavorable results. Our Top-Down model contributed to return.
